JIM CARREY was once America's box-office champ and romancing one of the world's most desirable women – but now his career and love life are both in the doldrums and friends fear he's headed for a devastating breakdown.

"Jim has suffered from severe depression in the past, and you have to worry those fearful days are coming back again," a close source told The ENQUIRER.

He seems to be at a low point – like a ship without a rudder”

"When you talk to him, he's not as animated as he used to be. He seems at a low point – like a ship without a rudder."

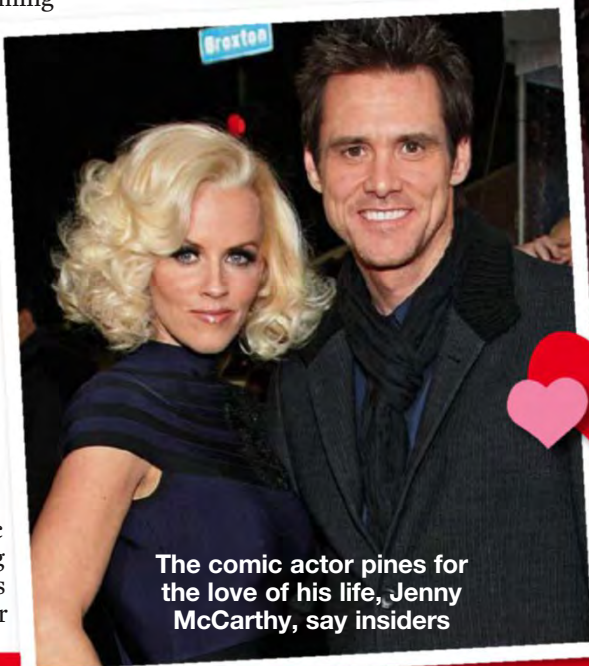

The twice-married comic genius' most heartbreaking problem is that he still pines for the love of his life, former

"Playboy" playmate Jenny McCarthy, say insiders.

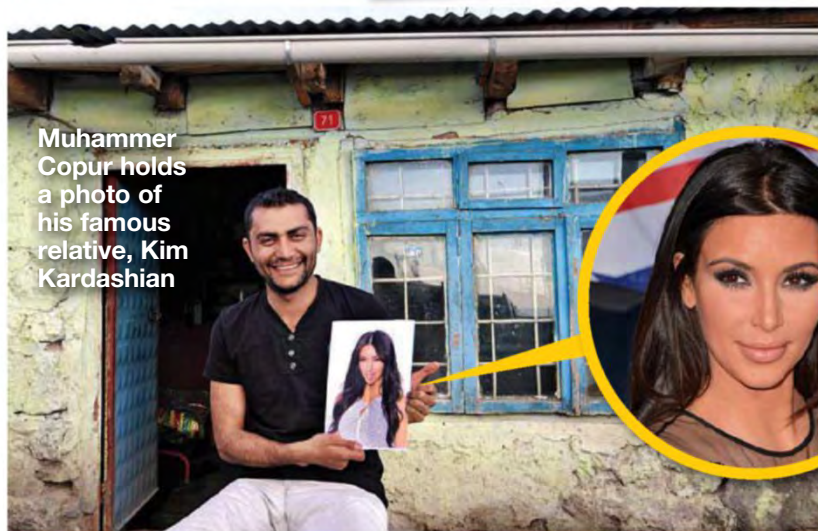

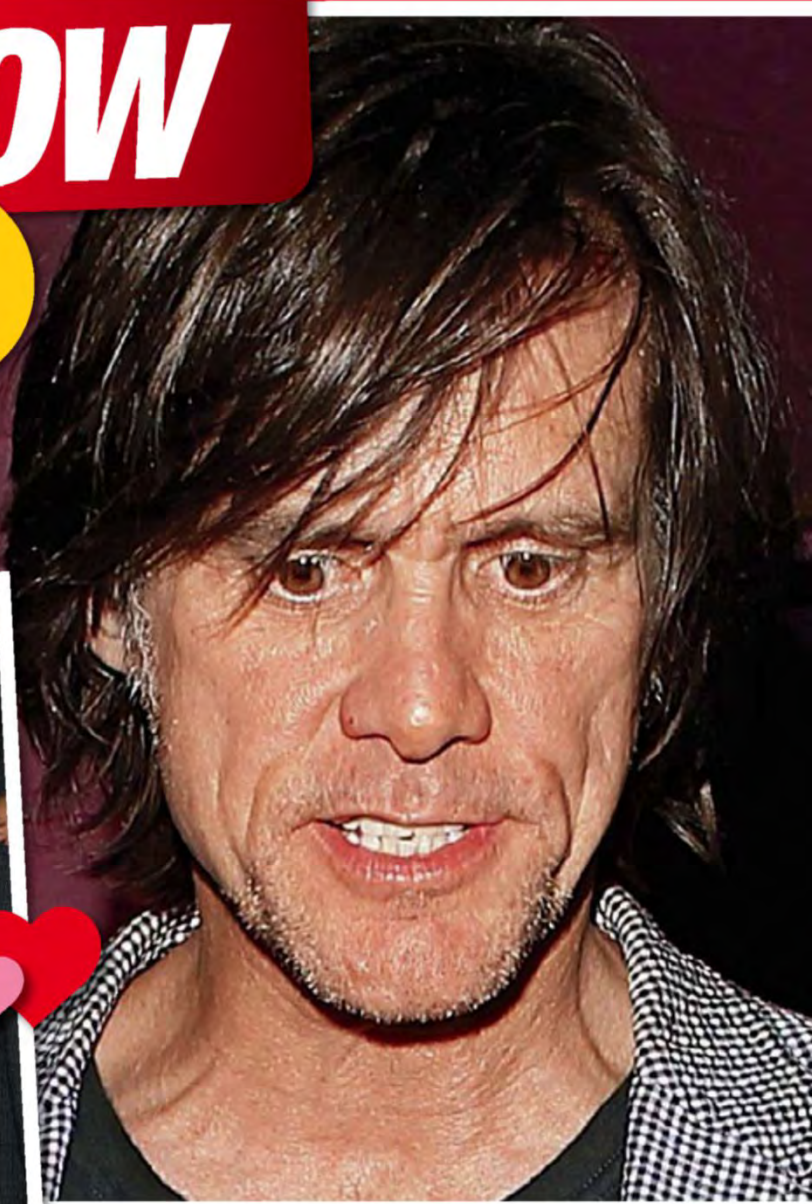

"Jim thought he and Jenny were going to be together for a lifetime," divulged an insider. "He was like a father to her autistic son Evan and even hoped to have a child with her someday."

HERE's one "Kardashian" that wouldn't be hard to "keep up with" – because he's dirt-poor and lives in a humble shack in Turkey. Using his town's only Internet connection, Muhammer Copur discovered that Kim and her siblings are his fourth cousins. And now he's inviting the reality diva and her baby daddy Kanye West to leave their luxurious $11 million mansion that they're building and visit him in his two-bed hovel, where he lives with his mom and five brothers and sisters.

KIM, 32, IS THE great-great-granddaughter of refugees who fled the village of Karakale, Turkey, to escape a bloody conflict.

at Jim, but he's been searching for real love, and there's no one to replace Jenny."

A source says Carrey, 51, believed the bombshell blonde "was the one" after he went through a failed, seven-year marriage to Melissa Womer, a brief union to actress Lauren Holly and a short engagement to Oscar winner Renee Zellweger.

Ironically, while Carrey suffers, McCarthy, 40, is on top of the world. She recently became a panelist on "The View," and insiders say she may soon be heading down the aisle with "New Kids on the Block" star Donnie Wahlberg. Meanwhile, Carrey – who packed theaters with comedy blockbusters such as "The Mask," "Ace Ventura," "Dumb and Dumber," "Liar Liar" and "Bruce Almighty" – has had only one modest hit in the past few years, "Mr. Popper's Penguins" in 2011.

His latest film, "Kick-Ass 2," has been a disappointment at the box office, and Carrey didn't help the cause by declaring shortly before its release: "In all good conscience, I can't support that level of violence."

THAT REMARK MAY HAVE DAMAGED his career as well as the movie's box-office receipts.

"Film studios certainly don't take kindly to an actor slamming his own movie," said an insider. "It makes producers hesitant to work with him."

Now, concerned sources say that Carrey's problems could push him over the edge. He's admitted to previously struggling with depression and took the antidepressant Prozac for a long time.

"Jim has done his best to beat back feelings of depression by meditating and staying away from drugs and alcohol," said the close source.

"His friends are very proud of him, but the joys of life have been eluding him, and seeing Jenny move on makes him ache for what they had.

"He's in a fragile emotional state. Pals fear for his future."

LIVES IN TWO-BED SHACK

"It would be like an earthquake if Kim visited the village because so many men would come and see her," declared Muhammer, 29.

"She is beautiful, just like some of the women in this village. I would love her to come and see her relatives.

"It would also be fun to go to America and be on her TV show, but I must first get a passport.

"I don't want money, but I would like to sit and have a cup of tea with her."

Muhammer – who earns $70 a week running a general store – says he is proud of the fame Kim has achieved. But he points out that if her great-great-grandmother had not fled to America with her husband, life would be different for the pampered socialite in his town of about 400.

"In Karakale," he said, "she would be herding cattle from dusk until dawn."

MELANIE GRIFFITH is falling apart!

As our shocking photo shows, the once fresh-faced "Working Girl" star is sporting an ugly bald patch around her ear. Ironically, experts tell The ENQUIRER that it may all be due to vanity and her desperate bid to stay young-looking.

Studying the dramatic new picture of the 56-year-old actress, Dr. Larry Shapiro, a renowned South Florida hair loss and restoration expert who has not treated Griffith, told The ENQUIRER: "I see this kind of hair loss all the time. It's one of the side effects from cosmetic surgery."

MELANIE, NOW STARRING IN THE independent film "Dark Tourist," recently blasted Hollywood's rejection of older actresses, saying: "It's all about youth and beauty – for women, anyway." Griffith has not admitted to having plastic surgery.

Just five years ago, Melanie and hubby Antonio Banderas, 53, were photographed together, and the actress looked perfectly normal. But in a photo taken on Sept. 12, her once-lush hair has turned into patches of fuzz above and alongside her ear.

"It appears she has a slight distortion of the ear position, which can be seen after a face-lift," New York-based plastic surgeon Dr. Matthew Schulman, who has not treated Melanie, told The ENQUIRER. "Hair tends not to grow within scar tissue, so in people with face-lifts, it's common to see hair loss around the ear."

Dakota hit by 'FIFTY SHADES' BACKLASH

REELING from fan attacks after landing the lead role in "Fifty Shades of Grey," a fragile Dakota Johnson is in danger of slipping back into substance abuse, friends fear.

Readers of the racy best-seller have bombarded the Internet with posts protesting the selection of the 23-year-old beauty to play Anastasia Steele in the film version.

THE DAUGHTER OF MELANIE GRIFFITH and Don Johnson has been "deeply hurt" by the nasty backlash after being tapped to portray the virginal coed who is introduced into the kinky underworld of bondage and discipline by sexually sadistic industrialist Christian Grey, played by "Sons of Anarchy" hunk Charlie Hunnam.

Incredibly, an online petition to cast two other actors quickly gathered more than 79,000 signatures.

"After she was chosen for the movie, Dakota was on top of the world," said a friend. "But when she became the target of irate fans of the book, it freaked her out."

"With all the pressure, she could easily slip and fall off the wagon."

As The ENQUIRER reported in December 2007, Dakota's heartbroken parents – who've had their own problems with substance abuse – sent their hard-partying daughter to rehab.

Now friends fear the ugly fan reaction to Dakota could reverse her progress. Los Angeles addiction expert Dr. Gregory Smith has not treated Dakota but told The ENQUIRER: "The number one reason addicts relapse is stress."

Even Melanie has rallied to the defense of her daughter, who most recently starred in the short-lived FOX sitcom "Ben and Kate."

Responding to a particularly nasty tweet, Mama Bear fired back: "Wow! You're quite the b* aren't you?"

OLIVIA NEWTON-JOHN's daughter Chloe was so upset about her mom's obsession with plastic surgery that she staged an intervention – led by none other than Olivia's "Grease" co-star John Travolta!

Chloe, 27, asked John to help after watching her mother's beautiful face get distorted from too much Botox and other fillers, says a source.

"John's the ONLY person in the world Olivia would have listened to about her plastic surgery," the source explained. "Even her husband (John Easterling) didn't want to go there because she's so sensitive about it."

"Of course, John brought up his concerns in his usual loving and sensitive way, so Olivia was open to hearing him out. She didn't promise John she'd stop everything, but she did politely tell him that she appreciated his concern and would think about it."

Olivia has previously denied having plastic surgery.

Celebrity plastic surgeon and author Dr. Anthony Youn, who has not treated Olivia, told The ENQUIRER it appears the 65-year-old singer-actress had injections of fillers in her cheeks. "I also suspect that she may have had Botox injections into her forehead," he continued. "Olivia is such a natural beauty that plastic surgery is definitely something she doesn't need."

Olivia and John have remained fast friends throughout the years

The "Let's Get Physical" singer, who's been married to natural health businessman Easterling since 2008, has remained close friends with John, 59, since the two starred together in the 1978 musical "Grease." They even reunited last year for a charity Christmas album.

MEANWHILE, CHLOE, WHOSE FATHER IS ACTOR Matt Lattanzi, has her own problems. She's admitted to battling anorexia as well as a drug and alcohol addiction. According to the source, Chloe, an aspiring singer who reportedly is no stranger to altering her own face with cosmetic procedures, contacted John because she knows how much her mother respects him.

"Now that Chloe is clean and sober, she realized that inner beauty is more important than what's on the outside – and that's why she reached out for help," said the source. "Olivia appreciated her daughter's concern and was genuinely moved by John's interest. Now it's just a matter of time to see if she takes his advice."

“GLEE” star Jane Lynch is anything but a gay divorcee after being blindsided by her 44-year-old wife Dr. Lara Embry.

Court papers obtained by The ENQUIRER reveal that psychologist Lara is demanding a whopping $93,000 a month in spousal support after just three years of marriage, and she may receive half of the couple’s community property under California law.

Daughter

Jane, who plays cheerleader coach Sue Sylvester on “Glee,” got hitched to Lara in 2010 in Maine, where gay marriage is legal. They later petitioned the courts to have their partnership recognized in their home state of California.

“AT THE TIME, JANE’S friends and family suggested she get Lara to sign a prenuptial agreement, but Jane didn’t feel she needed one,” revealed an insider. “Although she was making a lot of dough on ‘Glee,’ she felt that because Lara was a successful clinical psychologist, money wouldn’t be an issue.

“But when the two separated in February, Lara went for the jugular. Jane is just plain shocked.”

Lara’s money grab may include half the value of Jane’s $5 million L.A. home. The star – who is reportedly worth $10 million – already owned it when they wed, and she shelled out $3 million to make it more comfortable for Lara and her now-11-year-old daughter Haden, say sources.

“Jane was prepared to hand over half of the money she made during the marriage, but she never dreamed Lara would ask for so much, especially the spousal support,” said the source.

According to the legal documents, Lara’s average monthly expenses include $12,000 for entertainment, gifts and vacations; $6,500 for clothes; $4,500 for dining out; $4,000 for her daughter’s education; $1,500 for child care; $1,800 in groceries and household supplies and a whopping $5,000 for charitable donations.

Adding insult to financial injury, Jane has moved out of the house while Lara and Haden continue to live there.

“Jane adores Haden and the two get along great, and it just breaks her heart to have things turn nasty and affect that relationship,” said the source. “Meanwhile, Jane is just anxious to get the divorce over. But I’m afraid it’s going to be a long, bitter battle.”

Sexy Oscar winner JENNIFER LAWRENCE and boyfriend NICHOLAS HOULT looked like they were eating each other alive as they romped on the grass in Montreal's Mount Royal Park – hugging, kissing, nipping, squeezing and needily kneading – acting like they were the only ones around...which they were NOT! Said an annoyed eyewitness mom: “At first they were just standing there with arms wrapped around each other, but then they started kissing – and one thing led to another! Next thing I know, I’m covering my young daughter’s eyes as they drop to the grass and begin rolling around on top of each other.”

Suddenly, an old French-Canadian dude came running up and barked: “Prendre une chambre!” – which is parlez-vous for, “GET A ROOM!” Startled, and not comprehending, Jennifer and Nicholas leaped up, brushed themselves off and – when a passer-by explained what the cranky old coot had yelled – started laughing hysterically and skipped off hand in hand. Oo-la-LA!

DYING DOG CHANGED MY LIFE

Agonizing loss inspired pet lover to help others

Randy Handwerger started SS Aqua Dog spa in East Hampton after helping her own dog Sylvester

THE tragedy of a beloved dog's sickness and death has created a wellspring of healing hope for dozens of other stricken dogs – and a new life of healing for his owner.

When Randy Handwerger's Shiloh shepherd dog, Sylvester, was diagnosed with the canine version of multiple sclerosis, veterinarians told his heartbroken owner the pooch had just six months to live.

"I was devastated, but I'm not one to just sit there and be upset," Randy, an animal photographer, told The ENQUIRER. "So like any true animal lover, I did all I could do for my faithful companion."

Randy turned to the Internet and learned that although there was no cure for the doggy version of MS, the symptoms could be relieved through exercise. She became determined to start a workout program for Sylvester – and focused his exercise regimen around swimming.

She eased Sylvester into her parents' pool in East Hampton, N.Y., and before long, the pooch that had never liked the water and was wobbly walking on dry land was prancing around the pool like a puppy.

"I was not going to give up on my guy," Randy said. "Swimming gave us a chance to build his confidence, and it was a nice distraction and cherished bonding time for me."

Randy realized she had to find an alternative once the cold winter weather set in. She papered the town with posters of herself in a

The animals' maladies include arthritis and hip dysplasia bikini in a pool with Sylvester, and was contacted by someone who was willing to give her an outdoor heated spa.

WITH THE NEW SPA INSTALLED, Randy began studying physiology, dog anatomy, pet massage, Reiki – a form of Japanese healing therapy – and hydrotherapy. Her newfound knowledge enabled her to help Sylvester reach his 11th birthday – two years after he was first diagnosed.

Up until the week before his death, Sylvester swam every other day.

"The swimming exercise routine added at least six to nine months of quality time to his life, and I was grateful to have every gifted minute," Randy told The ENQUIRER.

Moved by her experience with Sylvester, Randy decided she wanted to help other sick and injured pups and their owners. She started SS Aqua Dog spa in East Hampton and now works with dogs that suffer maladies ranging from arthritis and hip dysplasia to obesity and pulled muscles.

"Sylvester brought me so much joy, but he also helped create a whole new life for me," Randy added. "His legacy has been medical help for dozens of other dogs who needed it."

"I now can keep his memory alive by helping others."

JENNIFER ANISTON's upcoming wedding to Justin Theroux will feature a surprise guest – her punked-out, tattooed half brother Alex as best man!

The “Friends” star has never been seen in public with the 24-year-old drifter. Known as AJ to pals, he’s the son of Jen’s father, daytime soap star John Aniston, and his second wife, Sherry Rooney.

The ENQUIRER has obtained exclusive photos of AJ that show him in full punk regalia, complete with a spiky haircut, patched-up shorts, scruffy work boots and a huge “Live Free” tattoo emblazoned across his stomach.

“AJ is exactly the type of person that security would throw out of Jen’s wedding. Instead he’ll be front and center at the ceremony,” said a family insider.

In a touching gesture, bride-to-be Jen, 44, decided to include AJ as a tribute to her 80-year-old dad, said the source.

“Jen hated her wedding to Brad Pitt,” said the insider. “It was too big and incredibly stressful.

“This time she wants a small family affair and she wants to go the extra mile to let her father see that she’s happy at last. And she knows that including his son would make him happiest.”

Before these pictures, AJ hadn’t been photographed in public since he was a clean-cut 14-year-old walking the red carpet with his dad and mom at the 2004 Hollywood premiere of Jen’s movie “Along Came Polly.”

Since then, AJ’s undergone a dramatic transformation into a homeless nomad who often sleeps in the back of his van while drifting between Los Angeles and Alaska.

“He makes his base at his dad’s Bell Canyon home when he’s in L.A.,” said a source. “And

JEN'S TATTOO

According to the family insider, Jen’s fiancé Justin – a tattooed, motorcycle-riding actor/screenwriter with his own drug past – has empathy for AJ. “Justin feels that having AJ act as his best man at the wedding will give him an anchor in the family,” said the source.

“There’s no doubt AJ is quirky, but he’s got a good heart and Jen does love him. Besides that, she seems to really want to make her father happy.”

Sadly, Jen is still at odds with her mother Nancy Dow, 77, a source says.

They famously feuded in 1996 after Nancy discussed ultra-private Jen’s life on an entertainment news show. The two mended fences in 2005, and when Nancy broke her hip in 2010, Jen paid her mom’s medical costs.

But as The ENQUIRER reported in July, Nancy was hospitalized for nearly a week after a nasty fall, and a source said Jen never came to visit.

“Jen’s not good at relationships with her family sometimes,” said the source. “Hopefully, she’ll extend an olive branch to her mom before her big day.”

when he’s not living in his van, he sometimes crashes with friends on their sofas.”

Despite their wildly divergent lifestyles, super-wealthy Jen and AJ are very close, sources say. But the A-list actress goes to great lengths to keep him out of the spotlight, never even mentioning him in interviews.

Meanwhile, AJ says on social media that he belongs to an L.A. guerilla theater group and the “Midnight Ridazz,” a pack of bicycle enthusiasts who have been riding together on the second Friday of every month since February 2004. He’s also an artist who does bizarre carvings out of raccoon skulls.

AJ recently attended the infamous drug- and booze-soaked Burning Man festival in the Nevada desert, where The ENQUIRER obtained world-exclusive photos of his alternative lifestyle.

The festival is a notorious annual week-long event, and photos show AJ enjoying the raucous goings-on, including partying with a naked man.

WHEN APPROACHED BY THE ENQUIRER, AJ declined to comment, but a friend describes him as into nature and hiking.

“AJ’s kind of a transient. He travels a lot,” the friend told The ENQUIRER.

“He’s a really creative guy who does his own thing and makes his own clothes. I would describe him as an artist. He also likes to make original bikes out of different bike parts.”

On his Instagram website, AJ has posted seven pictures of his raccoon-skull artwork. The first is titled “Racoon (sic) of tomorrow.”

Below the photo, a friend asks if he created it, and AJ replies: “Sure did. The first of many to come.”

Other photos he posted show a macabre pile of 16 skulls, a plant potted in a caved-in skull, and a Mohawk made of bone.

Jen’s fiancé Justin Theroux has empathy for AJ, as well as a heavily tattooed torso, much like Jen’s brother

'DUCK DYNASTY' FAMILY CRISIS

The Robertson clan has smashed TV records, attracting 12 million viewers to their show

"DUCK DYNASTY's witty Uncle Si Robertson is a laugh a minute on the A&E hit, but few fans know of his secret heartbreak as his family battled depression and suicide.

ertson clan has smashed TV records, attracting a phenomenal 12 million viewers to the cable show, which revolves around their homespun wisdom and the unlikely way they've earned millions – selling duck calls.

And "Duck Dynasty" patriarch Phil Robertson helped boost the family's fortune to more than $75 million with the success of his tell-all memoir, "Happy, Happy, Happy."

BUT VIETNAM VETERAN

Si, 65, went through hell before achieving incredible success. Si married his wife Christine in 1971 even though she believed she couldn't have children.

"Doctors told Christine there was a serious problem with her pregnancy and broke the news that her fetus would probably die," Si reveals in his fascinating new book "SI-COLOGY 1: Tales & Wisdom from Duck Dynasty's Favorite Uncle."

"When Scott was born, Christine kind of went into a shell because she was convinced he wouldn't survive," writes Si.

The baby's liver wasn't functioning properly, and they learned later that the problem had damaged part of his brain.

"Christine became depressed and was really battling her emotions," confides Si, adding that "Scott was suicidal from the time he was about five years old. His behavior was really erratic as a child."

At the age of 11, the youngster destroyed everything in his room. And when Christine went to check him out, she found her beloved son poised to leap out a second-story window.

"I CAN'T GO ON," SCOTT pleaded, according to the book. "...Make the pain go away."

The family soon learned that Scott was suffering from Asperger's syndrome, a form of autism.

But thanks to excellent treatment, Scott became a good student, married and now has a family of his own.

SADIE'S A CATWALK CUTIE

"DUCK DYNASTY" has invaded New York Fashion Week!

Gorgeous 16-year-old Sadie Robertson – daughter of Willie and Korie – hit the Big Apple runway promoting retro-inspired prom dresses she's creating with designer Sherri Hill.

Most of the "Duck Dynasty" clan was on hand for the high school sophomore's modeling debut on Sept. 9. She wore two stunning designs from the line, called "Sadie Robertson Live Original" collection by Sherri Hill.

The collection will be available next spring, and Sadie promises each dress will be "daddy-approved. It's gotta be long enough...the finger-tip rule."

MIRANDA LAMBERT has told hubby Blake Shelton in no uncertain terms: "Stay away from Cher! That woman's a cougar!"

Cher was personally selected by Blake to serve as his team mentor during the Battle Rounds on the fifth season of "The Voice," and now Miranda is worried that the 67-year-old Grammy winner will try to live the lyrics to one of her hit songs and "turn back time."

Divulged a friend: "Miranda knows Cher's a man-eater who likes strapping men in their thirties."

Blake – a towering 6-foot-5 and just 37 – certainly fits the bill.

"BLAKE'S A LOT LIKE HER former mountain-climber boyfriend Tim Medvetz, who's also 6-foot-5," a source close to Cher told The ENQUIRER. "He was also in his thirties."

Miranda, 29, is especially concerned because the "Believe" singer is still sexy and "has a history of bedding hot entertainers many years her junior," added the source.

Miranda and Blake – who tied the knot in 2011 but are often apart due to their hectic careers – were photographed together at a Nashville honoree awards show on Sept. 10 for the first time in months.

"That's when Miranda laid down the law," said the source. "She told Blake not to get too close to Cher because of her reputation as a femme fatale."

And the "Mine Would Be You" crooner has already declared his admiration for the songstress, gushing about meeting her on the finale of his show last season.

Blake defended buddy Clint Bowyer after he was accused of cheating

Miranda is concerned because Cher “has a history of bedding hot entertainers many years her junior,” says a source

Jealous Miranda warns Blake:

A friend of Blake’s said the country singer looks up to Cher and is smitten with her

STAY AWAY FROM COUGAR CHER!

He told fans: “My (late) dad’s favorite artist on earth, bar none, no question, was Cher...I wish he could have seen tonight’s episode because I would’ve been texting him saying, ‘Hey, I met Cher! I took a picture with Cher!’”

A friend of Blake’s disclosed: “He looks up to Cher and, frankly, is a little smitten with her. But he still thinks Miranda is silly to be jealous of her.”

MAN-EATER, 67, WILL
POUNCE ON HER HUBBY

‘VOICE’ STAR CAUGHT UP IN NASCAR SCANDAL

A REVVED-UP Blake Shelton zoomed to the defense of buddy Clint Bowyer after the popular NASCAR driver was disciplined for possibly cheating to help a teammate.

When Bowyer spun out during a race in Richmond, Va., on Sept. 7, it allowed his Michael Waltrip Racing teammate Martin Truex Jr. to win a spot in the upcoming Chase for the Sprint Cup.

But after a review, NASCAR officials decided the Waltrip team manipulated the race’s outcome. Truex lost his playoff spot, Bowyer’s Sprint Cup total was docked 50 points and the team was fined $300,000.

Despite the controversy, “The Voice” coach Shelton – who’s headlined a concert for Bowyer’s charity, the 79 Fund – stayed true to his pal.

“I am so proud of my boy Clint Bowyer,” Shelton wrote on his Twitter account, adding that detractors who called Bowyer out for cheating “can suck it.” And Clint returned the favor in a tongue-in-cheek tweet addressed to “all media members” and showing a photo of Blake: “I’ll be turning all questions for today over to my new publicist.”

Marc Eliot's sensational tell-all is slated to be published Oct. 29

Jack Nicholson's TWISTED LIFE EXPOSED!

Jack's good friend Sharon Tate (with husband Roman Polanski) was killed by Charles Manson's gang

Nicholson was riveted with the Manson case

While on LSD, Jack experienced castration and homoerotic fear fantasies, says author

■ Orgies ■ Gay fantasies ■ Drugs ■ Murder terror

FEARING he'd be killed, Jack Nicholson slept with a hammer under his pillow while involved in a bizarre Hollywood love triangle – and under the influence of drugs, the macho ladies' man had shocking gay fantasies.

Those are just two startling details about the 76-year-old Hollywood legend revealed in the blockbuster tell-all "Nicholson: A Biography," slated to be published Oct. 29.

THE ENQUIRER GOT AN EXCLUSIVE preview of the sensational book, which rips the lid off the ups and downs of Jack's amazing life.

In one bombshell revelation, best-selling author Marc Eliot discloses that the three-time Oscar winner feared for his life while involved with "The Mamas and The Papas" singer Michelle Phillips.

Nicholson was introduced to Phillips in 1970 after the sexy blonde singer had just divorced Dennis Hopper, Nicholson's "Easy Rider" co-star. Incredibly, Hopper and Phillips had managed to stay married for only eight days before a physical brawl destroyed their relationship.

But when Jack took up with Michelle, he was convinced hotheaded Hopper would come after him seeking bloody revenge. Jack, 36 at the time, was so paranoid, he slept with "a hammer under his pillow," according to Eliot.

What's more, Jack believed everyone in Hollywood had a gun and "was sure Hopper knew how to use his," writes the author.

Ironically, when the two actors finally met to talk about Jack's relationship with Michelle, Hopper just laughed it off.

Although the "Chinatown" star had a reputation as a ladies' man, Eliot says that Jack struggled with a gay secret. While under the influence of LSD, the actor experienced "castration fantasies" along with "homoerotic fear fantasies," according to Eliot.

Always up for something wild, Jack frequented orgies thrown by his good friend Harry Dean Stanton in the late 1960s. The sizzling sex parties would involve "the hottest starlets" and "all the available young men," according to the book.

Jack's skirt-chasing lifestyle led him to father four children with three different women. The happy-go-lucky "Batman" villain got hitched just once for seven years to actress Sandra Knight.

Jack was also friends with beautiful Sharon Tate, who was tragically slaughtered in 1969 by Charles Manson's bloodthirsty gang. He became riveted by the Manson case and was often spotted in the courtroom.

Jack attended Harry Dean Stanton's sizzling sex parties

"Jack, who was there almost every day, couldn't get enough of it," reveals Eliot.

Sadly, the actor's half sister Pamela Liddicoat was murdered 25 years later.

Despite his quirky nature, Nicholson has always been an in-demand actor. He's earned an astounding 12 Academy Award nominations – the most ever for a male actor – and is worth a staggering $400 million, says Eliot.

But his decisions have been far from flawless. He turned down the chance to play the iconic role of Michael Corleone in "The Godfather," leaving the part to Al Pacino. He also passed up starring in the classic Hollywood hit "The Sting."

Says Jack: "I'm a fairly common man, a New Jersey personality...but I try to give the common man some extraordinary facet."

'America's Got Talent' WINNERS... OR LOSERS?

SEASON 6, 2011 ★
Landau Eugene Murphy Jr., crooner, 39

Landau used his incredible voice to propel him from car-washer to world-class crooner. Raised on welfare and homeless at the age of 19, the West Virginia native was overcome with emotion when host Nick Cannon announced he'd won the show's million-dollar prize. But the father of four couldn't rush out and spend his winnings – he was behind on child support and needed to pay up. Since winning "AGT," he's performed to packed houses across the country. He also released his first album, "That's Life," two years ago and hopes to have a compilation of Christmas songs out before the holidays.

What happened to past champions OF THE HIT TALENT SHOW

EVER wonder what happened to the winners of "America's Got Talent"? The ENQUIRER has the lowdown on the champs of the hit NBC show over the past seven seasons from a new book, "Inside AGT, The Untold Stories of America's Got Talent" by Sean Daly and Ashley Majeski. Here's the latest on the "AGT" stars.

by MICHAEL GLYNN mglynn@nationalenquirer.com

★ SEASON 1, 2006
Bianca Ryan, singer, then 11 years old

This little firecracker wowed judges and viewers when she belted out her soulful rendition of the "Dreamgirls" anthem, "And I Am Telling You I'm Not Going," at her audition. From there, it was smooth sailing as she easily took the million-dollar prize. Simon Cowell signed the redheaded wunderkind to a multiyear recording deal in 2006. She's cut a CD, holiday recordings and, now 19, is working on another CD.

★ SEASON 7, 2012
Olate Dogs, dog act

Season 7 went straight to the dogs – literally! Nick Olate, 20, his father Richard, 57, and their team of well-trained pooches flipped and tumbled their way into America's hearts. After earning the top-dog spot, the family celebrated by purchasing a new truck and a super-size trailer to transport their growing family of pups, many of which have been rescued from shelters. The Olate Dogs recently headlined a show at The Palazzo in Las Vegas, and they also perform at NBA halftime shows around the country. Budding pop singer Nick recently completed his debut album, which is scheduled to be released this fall.

★ SEASON 2, 2007
Terry Fator, ventriloquist, 48

Prior to his big win on "AGT," Texan Terry Fator was told that he would never be good enough for Vegas. Boy, did he show them! Terry, a singing ventriloquist/comedian, now has a long-term contract with The Mirage Hotel in Sin City that's reportedly worth $100 million. But Terry took some heat when he dumped his wife of nearly 20 years, Melinda (pictured above), not long after hitting it big. Just hours after their bitter divorce was final in November 2010, Terry raced to the altar with his Hawaiian honey – his onstage assistant Taylor Makakoa (left), who was then just 22 years old. Calling Taylor his "soul mate," Terry said: "We are so happy and looking forward to spending the rest of our lives together."

★ SEASON 3, 2008
Neal E. Boyd, opera singer, 37

Neal's rendition of "Nessun Dorma" had all three judges – and the audience – on their feet at his audition. So it was no surprise when he went on to win the competition. But despite his booming voice, Neal's back to a 9-to-5 life in the insurance business as co-owner of Cox & Boyd insurance brokerage in Eureka, Mo. He ran for a seat in the Missouri House of Representatives in 2012, but lost by a large margin. He recently announced he intends to run again (as a Republican) in 2014. Neal still performs a few times a month and is currently in the studio working on an album of Christmas music.

★ SEASON 4, 2009
Kevin Skinner, country singer, 39

Judge Sharon Osbourne didn't have high hopes for the unemployed chicken farmer the first time he walked out onto the "AGT" stage, but his heartfelt performance of Garth Brooks' "If Tomorrow Never Comes" changed her mind. Maybe Sharon's first impression was right! Although Kevin's toured clubs and casinos over the past few years, things have "slowed down" this year, he says. The father of two from Mayfield, Ky., is "taking some time off" to focus on writing and to care for his elderly parents, Jackie and Joe.

★ SEASON 5, 2010
Michael Grimm, singer, 33

Michael made good on his promise to build a new home for his grandparents after he took the million-dollar prize on "AGT." He's grateful he was able to help them, as his grandmother is now battling colon cancer and his grandfather is suffering from dementia. But it hasn't all been grim for Grimm! Michael and his longtime girlfriend, Lucie Zolcerova, married less than a year after the "AGT" finale (below). He's also released a critically praised solo CD and toured as an opening act for Stevie Nicks.

VINCE GILL GOES NUTS WITH WACKO CHURCH!

Country star confronts protesters who ACCUSED HIM OF ADULTERY

COUNTRY superstar Vince Gill has vowed to wage all-out war against the hate-spewing Westboro Baptist Church after its members picketed one of his concerts – and appeared to refer to his beloved wife Amy Grant as “whorish!”

The fanatical Kansas-based church has captured national attention by organizing anti-gay protests at military funerals and stomping on the American flag – but the wackos met their match when they picked on Gill!

On Sept. 8, sources say the 56-year-old singer stormed out of the Kauffman Center in Kansas City, Mo., shortly before a concert and confronted Westboro members.

“I just came to see what hate looked like,” growled Gill before launching into an expletive-laced tirade, according to an eyewitness.

Handicapped woman's sister blasts: Drew Barrymore's DOGGONE CRUEL

VIOLET BLASSINGAME says her mentally disabled sister's heart is broken after her dog was wrongly confiscated by animal control – and she blames the whole tragic situation on Drew Barrymore!

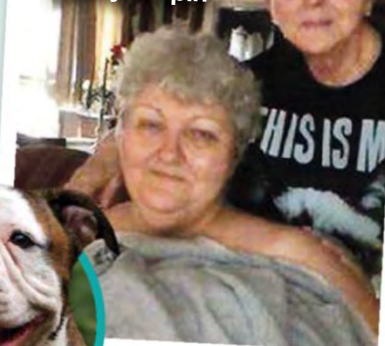

According to Violet, Drew and Adam Sandler were visiting residents of Gainesville, Ga., in a good will effort while filming “The Familymoon” there.

But Violet says her sister Nancy Halpin's excitement quickly turned to horror when animal control showed up at her door soon after Drew's visit and said the actress had called them to complain that the collar on her mixed-breed dog was too tight.

“Nancy almost died of a brain infection a year ago,” Violet, 62, told The ENQUIRER. “It left her with only half of her brain, and she

Before picketing Gill's concert, the Westboro church posted on Twitter: "Hey, Vince Gill, God hates adultery and violence to (the) marriage covenant." The extremist group, consisting mainly of the Rev. Fred Phelps and about 40 family members, also had the gall to apparently refer to Christian pop superstar Amy as "whorish."

Vince and 52-year-old Amy became friends in 1993 and found solace with each other as their marriages began crumbling. The "When I Call Your Name" singer split from his wife Janis in 1998 after 18 years of marriage, and Amy filed for divorce from her husband Gary Chapman a year later.

THEY DIDN'T TIE THE KNOT until nine months after Amy's divorce was finalized, and Vince has been steadfast in denying rumors they had an affair before their marriages ended. But that didn't stop one Westboro nutcase from telling him: "Don't you know that divorce plus remarriage equals adultery? Jesus Christ said that."

Vince, who has 12-year-old daughter Corrina with Amy, shot back: "Did He? You know what else He said? He said a lot of stuff about forgiveness, about grace. You guys don't have any of that."

A pal disclosed: "Vince isn't going to take this attack lying down. Casting aspersions on Amy and the sanctity of their marriage is the last straw."

PAULA DEEN fans across the country were stunned by her headline-making emotional breakdown before 1,500 cheering admirers – but The ENQUIRER has learned the devastating secret behind her tearful outburst.

After agonizing for more than a year over her crumbling marriage, the scandal-plagued queen of southern cooking was overwhelmed by new fears that she's headed for a $20 million divorce, a source says.

What's more, we discovered the REAL reason that her embittered husband of nine years, Michael Groover, stood by her side in Houston as she launched her attempted comeback at the Metro Cooking & Entertaining Show.

"For months, Michael wanted to get away from the limelight created by Paula's scandal," a close source told The ENQUIRER. "But Paula pleaded with him to stand by her as she tries to resume her career. Despite their marriage woes, Michael realizes that he and Paula have to keep up appearances so her business can thrive again.

"Now she's scheduled to have several more public appearances and pleaded with Michael to join her. With the family encouraging him, Michael caved in and said he'd be there for her as she gets her business going again."

Paula's brand and image were destroyed early this summer after The ENQUIRER revealed exclusively that, during a court deposition, she'd admitted to using an ugly racial slur. She was ousted from the Food Network channel, lost a lucrative book deal, and major chain stores stopped selling her products, severing ties with her.

The 66-year-old TV cook recently chose Houston to begin her comeback because as she told the cheering crowd: "Y'all's hearts are as big as your state."

But her fans, who gave her a two-minute standing ovation, never dreamed that the show of support by her 57-year-old tugboat captain husband was fake, an insider says. In reality, said the source, he is furious that Paula "had soiled his name" when she revealed in the deposition that he liked to tell racial jokes.

THE BOMBHELL DEPOSITION CAME DURING a discrimination lawsuit filed by a former employee. The lawsuit was dismissed in August, but an insider says the legal action marked the death knell for Paula's marital relationship.

"Her marriage has been struggling for well over a year," said a source, who predicted that it would end in a multimillion-dollar "divorce nightmare in the near future."

DIVORCE SHOCKERS

Until her recent public appearance, Paula was holed up in her huge waterfront Savannah, Ga., mansion

The source added that, in the source's opinion: "The overwhelming sadness that Paula's been carrying around has finally been surfacing in uncontrollable crying fits. While the marriage has been showing signs of weakness for quite some time, the stress of the racial scandal really took its toll.

"Paula nearly became a recluse. She insisted on spending her days alone and withdrew from almost everyone, including Michael.

"And when Paula lost her endorsement deals, there were new issues facing the marriage, mostly having to do with financial fears.

"Rather than let the smallest issues roll off their backs like they were able to do early on in their marriage, Paula and Michael got into heated arguments, and during these nasty bustups they bickered over the most trivial matters. It was devastating for Paula. Their friends are convinced the marriage won't survive all this turmoil and in the end Michael will walk away and file for divorce. Paula knows it can't go on like this much longer – something in the marriage has got to give!"

JESSICA WINS $8M WEIGHT-LOSS WAR

– after Kim gets too greedy!

JESSICA Simpson has scored a stunning victory in her battle of the bulge against Kim Kardashian – by nailing an $8 million Weight Watchers contract!

Both are new moms, and reality diva Kim was courted by the weight-loss company. But sources say Weight Watchers execs balked after the money-hungry Kardashian turned down their $5 million offer. Meanwhile, Jessica's $4 million deal as the company's spokeswoman had been put on hold when she got pregnant with her second child last year – but now they've decided to double that!

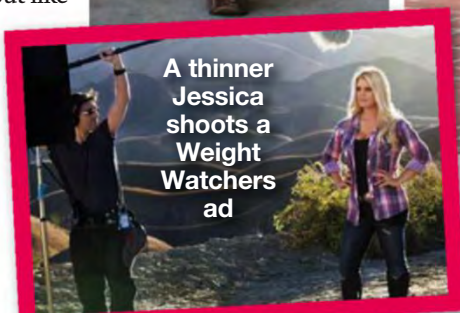

"JESSICA NAILED IT," an insider told The ENQUIRER. "She played the waiting game and made out like she didn't really care. When Kim turned up her nose at the $5 million offer, Weight Watchers realized they needed Jessica back. They were so desperate they basically doubled her money."

Now, sources say Jessica, 33, is determined to show up Kim, 32 – who gave birth to boyfriend Kanye West's daughter North on June 15 – in the weight-loss department too.

"Jessica might have talked about feeling sorry for Kim because of all the criticism she received about her weight during her pregnancy, but in reality Kim spurred her into action," revealed the insider. "Now that Weight Watchers has chosen her, she's determined to slim down faster than Kim."

Jessica's baby daddy is her fiancé Eric Johnson, a 34-year-old former pro football player who also fathered her 1-year-old daughter Maxwell. The insider says that Jessica – who gave birth to son Ace on June 30 – has signed a one-year deal with Weight Watchers and her ads will be debuting in late October.

"The big deal has really motivated Jessica to lose weight," said a family friend. "She's got a wedding to think about too. She really wants to be down to her Daisy Duke's size 2 for that!"

"TRANSFORMERS" vamp Megan Fox has gone from sex bomb to hot mom – and it has slowed down her career comeback.

The 27-year-old screen siren – who's had just a few small parts in films in two years – is now a stay-at-home mother as she prepares to give birth to her second child.

"THIS IS NOT something Megan had planned for," said an insider.

Even before her diaper days, the outspoken beauty's career began stalling after she declared that "Transformers" director Michael Bay "wants to be like Hitler on his set, and he is."

In 2011, Megan had begun mounting a comeback but became pregnant with Noah, now 1. Then, in August, she announced she was expecting her second child.

What's more, Megan is also helping her hubby, "Anger Management" star Brian Austin Green, raise 11-year-old Kassius, his son by former girlfriend Vanessa Marcil.

While Megan recently signed on to be the face of Avon Instinct fragrance line, she wasn't expecting that to be her only gig – outside of motherhood.

"Megan planned on getting back to acting after a year off, but now those plans are out the window," said the source. "She'll have her hands full at home while Brian brings home most of the bacon."

CLINT WIFE'S SHO WITH DIRTY HARRY'S

CLINT EASTWOOD's furious wife Dina caught the "Dirty Harry" actor cheating and confronted the "other woman" in an angry showdown, The ENQUIRER has learned.

That's the real story behind the bizarre wife swap situation that's unfolded among Clint, Dina, her new beau Scott Fisher and HIS ex-wife!

Sources told The ENQUIRER that Dina, 48, caught Clint and Erica Tomlinson Fisher – Scott's ex – on their way to a room at the Mission Ranch hotel, a romantic getaway Clint owns in Carmel, Calif. The bitter confrontation took place last March, right in front of Dina and Clint's 16-year-old daughter, Morgan.

"DINA ONLY HOOKED UP WITH Scott after his estranged wife took up with Clint," explained a source. "Although Dina and Scott dated in high school, they'd been just friends for years – nothing more. She was a happily married woman."

The two couples had spent time

together when the still-married Scott and Erica were on the mainland visiting family. Scott, a 50-year-old assistant basketball coach at the University of Hawaii, and Erica divorced in 2012 after a decade of marriage.

"Erica had always been deeply jealous of Dina," said the source. "She was obsessed with the lavish life Dina had been living with Clint."

According to the source, Erica approached Clint in the summer of 2012 under the guise of pitching him a script – and then she turned on the charm. Erica is a "very manipulative, bright and beautiful woman," said another insider. "Clint was smitten with her and liked the fact that she came on to him so aggressively."

The insider says Clint, 83, invited 42-year-old Erica to fly with him to his ranch near Shasta, Calif., and he arranged for her to stay with him at his house in L.A.

"Dina knew nothing about this at the time," added the insider. "It was all done behind her back."

But in March 2013, Dina got a call

Portia & Ellen FIGHTING LIKE CRAZY REVEALED: Jealousy driving them apart

— sources

EELLEN DEGENERES' five-year marriage to Portia de Rossi is on the rocks over the talk-show queen's flirting, workaholic ways and real estate addiction, pals say.

Their $125 million relationship exploded after actress Olivia Munn was the guest on Ellen's Sept. 10 show.

"It's no secret that Olivia loves Ellen," a source told The ENQUIRER. "She's even joked about coming over to Ellen's from a friend, who said that they had seen Clint and Erica having dinner together. Dina and Morgan raced over to the Mission Ranch restaurant just as Clint and Erica were on their way to a hotel room, according to the source.

"There was a big scene," said the insider. "Dina confronted Erica and said point-blank, 'I know you're sleeping with my husband! Don't deny it! You are a homewrecker.' Erica lit into Dina, calling her names...then she had the nerve to add, 'I'm not going to say anything else in front of your daughter.'"

Shortly afterward, Clint moved out of the family's residence in Carmel. In April, Dina entered an Arizona rehab facility, where she was treated for depression and anxiety. Over the summer, Dina stayed at her and Clint's home in Maui, where she reconnected with Scott.

Dina, who has been married to Clint for 17 years, made her separation from Clint legal on Sept. 9, filing papers in California's Monterey County Superior Court for the legal separation. She is asking for physical custody of Morgan and spousal support. The couple is said to be worth $375 million.

Said the source: "This whole messy thing has been more than Dina can bear."

house to hang out. At first, Portia thought the flirting was cute and part of being a talk-show host. But Ellen's taken it way too far, and it's causing a real problem in their marriage.

"After Olivia's latest appearance on the show, Portia tried to talk to Ellen about how uncomfortable it makes her feel when she flirts with her guests. But as soon as Portia started pouring out her heart, Ellen shut her down and told her to 'just deal with it.'"

Ellen, who famously dated bisexual actress Anne Heche for three years, loves to toy with her straight female guests. And Olivia is the latest on her "girl crush" list, which also includes pop singer Katy Perry and "Modern Family" sexpot Sofia Vergara, said the source.

Adding to Ellen and Portia's marital woes are the talk-show host's workaholic ways, says the source. She regularly spends upward of 12 hours a day on the set or at her production offices. And during her spare time, she's often indulging her fixation with real estate.

"SHE ALWAYS SEEMS TO BE out house hunting, looking for places she can fix up and put back on the market," revealed the source. "Ellen loves the thrill of wheeling and dealing – and it's led to some multimillion-dollar payoffs."

Ellen, 55, turned into a real-estate junkie in the early 2000s after she plunked down $15.75 million for a sprawling 5,000-square-foot estate in Santa Barbara and sold it the next year for $20 million.

"Ellen and Portia have moved nine times in less than nine years," said an insider. "She's become a serial house-flipper."

"But Portia is sick of the constant moving. She wants to put down roots in one place and stay there."

And sources say the stress showed when the couple attended the wedding of Ellen's brother Vance last month.

"Ellen was all smiles but Portia wore a smirk on her face almost the whole time, like she 'had' to be there," said the insider. "It's become obvious to friends that they've drifted far apart. Even when they're together, they fight like cats and dogs."

"Everyone's wondering if they'll split. The truth is that Ellen doesn't want to become the poster girl for gay divorce, but Portia is at the end of her rope."

WILL & JADA: SEPARATE LIVES

$800 MILLION
DIVORCE SHOCKERS

It will be easier for the couple to divide up cold, hard cash than try to sell their homes in the middle of a divorce

HOLLYWOOD is in the middle of a big bucks divorce epidemic that's already crippled Michael Douglas' marriage to Catherine Zeta-Jones – and the latest A-list couple to be swept up in the marital monsoon is Will and Jada Pinkett Smith!

Long plagued by gay rumors and reportedly leading separate lives for years, sources say Will, 45, and Jada, 42, have been selling off real estate holdings as they prepare for a $300 million split.

“WHEN THINGS STARTED GOING SOUTH a few years back, they decided their long-term prospects were suspect and it would be better to err on the side of caution by selling off some of their properties,” said a family friend.

Another source explained: “It would be less complicated for them to divide cold, hard cash than try to sell off their homes in the middle of a divorce.”

The couple previously have denied a breakup.

In December 2011, the Smiths sold their Hawaii estate on the island of Kauai for $20 million. Now, sources say they want to unload their sprawling Calabasas, Calif., compound – where they live with their son Jaden, 15, and daughter Willow, 12 – for a whopping $42 million!

Featured in “Architectural Digest” two years ago, the estate features a 25,000-square-foot adobe-style house, a man-made lake, a hotel-size pool and tennis, basketball and volleyball courts. Although a real estate website reported that the home is on the market, a representative for the couple recently denied that it's for sale.

Despite the amenities of a pampered life, the kids have shown the strain of their parents' troubled marriage. Jaden caused a stir of controversy when he was accused of blasting a female fan in an expletive-filled online tirade. And he recently tweeted about how the world would be better off if everyone dropped out of school.

Willow also raised concerns – and her dad's ire – when she released a sexed-up video called “Summer Fling,” in which she prances around with much older boys. And last year she made a disturbing Internet posting in which she talks about suicide, mental illness and drug use.

“If Will and Jada decide to pull the plug,” said the source, “it's likely he'll want to put some distance between them by spending more time at his home in Bryn Mawr (Pa.), near where he grew up in Philly.”

MEANWHILE, ONE WEEK AFTER

The ENQUIRER showed Michael Douglas moving out of the luxury Manhattan apartment he shared with Catherine and their children Dylan, 13, and Carys, 10, he's reportedly bunking up at the Bedford, N.Y., home of billionaire George Soros. Now, we can reveal that as he heads into what will likely be a $300 million divorce, Michael's also ramping up his “bro-romance” with jet-setting French playboy Jean “Johnny” Pigozzi. A source says it's because he wants the millionaire businessman to set him up with women!

“Michael isn't about to let his marital mess with Catherine get in the way of him having fun,” said a pal. In the source's opinion, “he's turned to Johnny for some boys' nights out on the town – and to hopefully score some female companionship along the way.”

J.Lo's body double turns

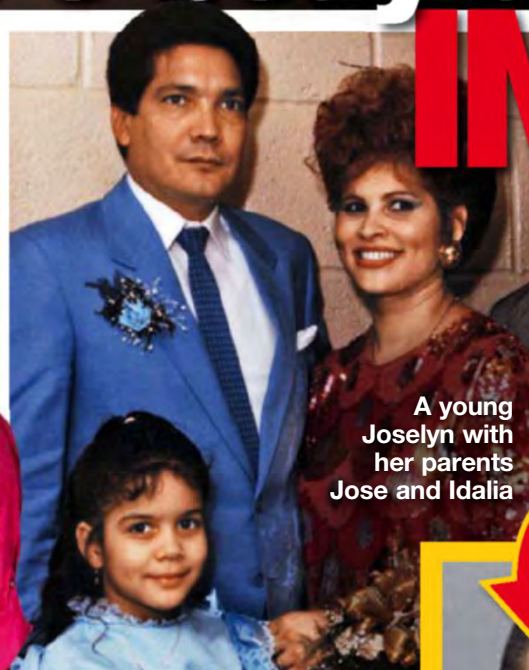

INTERNET SLEUTH

...and tracks down dad's killer AFTER 26 YEARS — say cops

The actress once stood in for J.Lo (inset above) in the 2009 film "The Back-up Plan"

“I felt I had to do it for my father... I couldn't let it go”

A young Joselyn with her parents Jose and Idalia

ACTRESS Joselyn Martinez was just 9 when her beloved father was gunned down outside his New York City restaurant in 1986.

Cops quickly identified the suspect as 16-year-old Justo Santos, but the teen apparently fled to the Dominican Republic and disappeared. Detectives spent years in a futile search for him, then the trail grew cold and, eventually, the case was all but forgotten. Joselyn — who served as a stand-in for Jennifer Lopez in the 2009 film "The Back-up Plan" — couldn't forget. In 2004, she started scouring the Internet for clues about the man who had allegedly murdered her father in cold blood. And incredibly, 26 years after her father's death, she finally found him.

Thanks to Joselyn's tireless cyber-sleuthing, Santos was arrested on June 6 and charged with the brutal crime.

"I felt I had to do it for my father," said Joselyn, now 36. "I was determined to bring his killer to justice."

Authorities say that on Nov. 22, 1986, Santos and two friends walked into Dominican Express, the restaurant Joselyn's father, Jose, owned in Manhattan,

OFFICIAL MUG SHOT

Justo Santos was taken into custody in Miami and began verbally and sexually harassing Joselyn's mother, Idalia. Jose tried to kick the group out, but an argument ensued. Cops say Santos pulled a gun and shot Jose right in front of Idalia.

"He ruined my life. He ruined the life of my daughter," Idalia said of Santos.

ALTHOUGH SANTOS WAS IDENTIFIED the following day, he eluded apprehension by fleeing the country.

"I saw his picture on the wanted posters," said Joselyn, who lives in the Bronx. "He was smiling. My mom told me to never forget his name."

She didn't.

For nearly a decade, Joselyn spent hour after hour scrolling through sites like MySpace, Facebook and Background.com looking for Santos.

"I couldn't let it go," said the actress. "I knew he must have thought he'd gotten away with it, and that made me even more determined to find him."

Joselyn admits there were times she felt like it was a hopeless endeavor. But in February of this year, she finally got a hit.

One of her searches led to a man named "Justo Santos" in Miami — and he had the same date of birth as the accused killer.

"I thought, 'I've got him. I've finally found him.' I was so excited," she recalled.

The information Joselyn provided to police was exactly what they needed to make an arrest. Santos was taken into custody in Miami and confessed to the killing. New York's top cop had nothing but praise for Joselyn's detective work.

"I applaud her," said police commissioner Ray Kelly. "It's admirable what she did. She made a concerted effort and it paid off."

Joselyn added: "Now my family and I have some peace of mind knowing that my father's killer is not still out there."

PATRICK SWAYZE's beloved mom Patsy suffered a massive stroke just days before the fourth anniversary of the "Dirty Dancing" star's death – and her heartbreaking plight touched off a new family feud.

As the 86-year-old dancer-turned-choreographer battled for life, Patrick's widow Lisa Niemi faced off against other family members over finances – with a relative pleading on the Internet for funds to bury the family matriarch.

"My mom had a massive stroke, so we decided to bring her home, and now she has hospice care," Patrick's brother Don told The ENQUIRER in an exclusive interview.

"She has maybe one to two weeks left, and there is no chance of recovery. She is as comfortable as can be in bed.

"She was a choreographer for all different types of music, so we are playing some of her favorites, and her dog Rocky, a sweet pit bull mix, is by her side."

The 55-year-old actor, now starring on the FX network series "The Bridge," added: "She responds slightly by squeezing our hand when we talk to her and smiles when the dog licks her hand, but she can't really talk anymore."

And a source close to Patsy told

EXCLUSIVE INTERVIEW ▶

The ENQUIRER that she wants to be buried at the same cemetery where her late husband Jesse and daughter Vicky are interred.

Sadly, Patsy also outlived her famous son Patrick, who died on Sept. 14, 2009, at age 57, after a valiant battle with pancreatic cancer.

Meanwhile, Patrick's widow Lisa tenderly wrote on her Facebook page: "Sadly, my mother-in-law Patsy is moving into her final days...She's hardly a moment out of my thoughts."

BUT THERE HAD BEEN BAD BLOOD

between Lisa and Patsy, centering around the Simi Valley, Calif., home where Patsy lived with Patrick's youngest brother, truck driver Sean, 50, and his family. Lisa insisted that Patrick wanted Patsy moved to an assisted living facility after he died – and Sean feared that would put him and his family out on the street.

"Now, Sean is worried that Lisa will pull the rug out from under him as soon as Patsy dies," revealed a family insider.

To make matters even more bitter, a new feud has erupted over Patsy's burial expenses.

Danielle, Don's 25-year-old daughter, posted an Internet plea soliciting funds for Patsy's funeral, with a goal of $15,000.

"Unfortunately the family has no money to cover the funeral costs," states the website.

The very next day, Lisa told her Facebook followers that she was "saddened" by the plea and insisted that "ALL her costs are already covered."

But Danielle fired back online,

Patrick's brother Don (left) told The ENQUIRER his mom has one to two weeks left to live. Below, his brother Sean and Don's daughter Danielle

Patsy lives in this Simi Valley home with her son Sean claiming that Lisa never contacted anyone in the family about the funeral costs being covered. And her dad Don supported her with a tweet that said: "Not true. My beautiful daughter is helping with that."

Lisa then shot back: "Please enlighten me. What is not covered?"

ATTENTION: Americans Who Suffer From Foot, Leg & Knee Pain!

Men & Women "Lining Up" For The 30 Second Pain Solution That's Sweeping The Nation!*

Thousands of users are able to live a more active everyday life! Read for yourself and discover the 3 secrets behind this run-away success!

Before you read on, let us say this: This is NOT a "Miracle Cream" and there is a minor drawback to this solution. But if you're interested in a scientifically based solution that can truly change your quality of life, then keep on reading. If you're suffering from pain in the lower leg, feet, ankles and knees, you are far from alone. In fact, you are among more than 100 million Americans who suffer from these problems, many in silence, according to several studies.

Now there is a unique formula, that has men and women raving about their new quality of life.

But let's start with the drawback...

Let's get it over with and mention that this is not a "Miracle product" where you just swallow a pill and then live painlessly "ever after". Instead, this is a unique cream that you rub into your problem areas and a typical application takes about 30 seconds. The manufacturer even recommends that you apply the cream 3 times per day, and in more serious cases, even 4 times per day, to reach maximum benefits. The distributor is aware that this can be a little bit of a hassle, so this is a minor drawback.

However – the results are almost instant!

Some users are actually shocked that a gel can provide these results in so little time. The effect is dramatic and you get both quick results and results that build up over time. How is that possible? Let us explain....

The 3 Main Secrets behind this dramatic formula:

In fact, this American manufactured formula is one of the first no-mess creams to combine these 3 Main Secrets!

Secret # 1: Contains Capsaicin, a proven pain reliever!

Capsaicin is a very effective pain reliever that is only manufactured in FDA-regulated facilities, according to federal regulations. It's used to give fast and temporary relief of minor aches and pains associated with strains, sprains, arthritis, bruises and certain joint pain.

Secret # 2: Contains the natural ingredient Glucosamine!

The combination of Glucosamine and Capsaicin helps you to escape pain as well as increase your range of motion. Glucosamine has multiple studies that show its effectiveness for refreshing cartilage and lubricating joints*. The results are more mobility, more flexibility and less discomfort and pain!

Secret # 3: Contains Emu oil – for deep and fast penetration!

Oil from the bird Emu is proven in studies to have unique abilities to penetrate deeper into the skin, than many other oils, and therefore helps the ingredients to reach deeper into the body in a shorter time.

But that's not all!

The distributor of this pain relieving gel has first hand seen how many people that have been helped by this innovation. Their spokesperson states: "In fact, the 3 Main Secrets are not all! This unique cream also contains Aloe Leaf Juice, Argentea Extract, Ginkgo Biloba Extract, Ginseng Root Extract and Alfalfa Extract – all ingredients that go right to the source and refresh feet, knees and ankles.

So is this one of those 100-dollar creams...?

The distributor answers: "We could easily charge more for this pain-relieving formula, but that's not our business model, we want this product to be available for as many as possible, for a price they can truly afford. And we only sell directly to the consumer – skipping all middlemen in the process".

So what's the price? Believe it or not – one tube of this unique formula is only $9.95 and it contains 4 FL OZ. Typically enough for 2-3 weeks of treatment. And there are no strings attached. The distributor does NOT enroll you in any "program". If you want more tubes, you call them and order more tubes – it's as simple as that.

The company states: "Even if we wanted to, we don't need to resort to

AFTER diva antics deep-sixed her big-screen hopes, ex-“Grey’s Anatomy” star Katherine Heigl has come crawling back to TV – and her foes are crowing!

Sources say the beauty, 34, and her meddling “momager” Nancy capitalized her career with their outrageous demands and difficult behavior.

NOW THE STAR OF “Knocked Up” and “27 Dresses” has stooped so low that she’s resorting to sleep-aid TV commercials.

“A lot of people who’ve worked with Katherine say this is karma,” sniffed an insider.

“She and her mom treated everyone from producers and directors to script and wardrobe people badly on her way up. So they’re thrilled to see this happening to her now.”

Heigl first made waves back in 2007 when she threatened to quit “Grey’s” while negotiating a pay raise. The actress – who played Dr. Izzie Stevens on the show – eventually left in a snit for big-buck film roles.

But after some initial success, she made a string of box-office disappointments including “Killers,” “One for the Money” and “The Big Wedding.” And earlier this year, she was so desperate for work that she appeared in a ZzzQuil commercial.

According to a published report, her reputation also wrecked a recent chance for her to land the lead in a TV series.

“She would have been perfect for the role, but all of us said she’s not worth it,” noted a producer.

Since then, Heigl has signed on to do an NBC pilot about the CIA, but her future appears far from certain.

“Katherine’s wicked ways have come back to haunt her,” said the source. “This pilot may be her last chance for a comeback.”

Sara Gilbert’s BIG GAY THEORY

JOHNNY GALECKI took a “Big Bang” to his ego after his teen sweetheart Sara Gilbert revealed that she realized she was gay after making out with him!

Now 38 and a co-host on “The Talk,” Sara recently revealed that she knew she was a lesbian after hooking up with Johnny, who played her love interest, David, on “Roseanne,” in the ‘90s.

“I thought he was super cute and I had a total crush on him,” Sara recalled of her former co-star. “We started dating and he would come over and we would, like, make out, and then I would start to get depressed.”

Sara says she

Sara had a total crush on Johnny. At right, the actress with fiancée Linda Perry

“Roseanne” star became a lesbian after dating ‘Bang’ geek

called Johnny before the Sept. 12 show and claims he was completely supportive of her decision to share her secret.

But a source close to the actor said Johnny really didn’t have a choice.

“What else could he do? He’s not going to say, ‘No, don’t do it!’” said the source. “That would just make him look petty.”

“DEEP DOWN, I THINK IT MUST have wounded his pride a bit.”

Sara said that after her romance with Johnny, she went on to date a woman 18 years her senior who was “also in the public eye.”

Sara and Johnny, 38, who’s currently dating “Pan Am” actress Kelli Garner, remain friends. She even makes guest appearances on “The Big Bang Theory.”

As The ENQUIRER previously reported, Sara and longtime partner Ali Adler split in 2011, and the actress is now happily engaged to songwriter Linda Perry.

★ Young men who routinely exercise vigorously could be at a much lower risk of epilepsy later in life.

Swedish researchers studied long-term health and fitness information of more than a million men and found that those who had a high level of fitness were a whopping 79 percent less likely to develop epilepsy than those with low fitness levels.

"There are a host of ways exercise has been shown to benefit the brain and reduce the risk of brain diseases," says Dr. Elinor Ben-Menachem of Sweden's University of Gothenburg.

"This is the first study in humans to show that exercise may also reduce the risk of epilepsy, which can be disabling and life-threatening."

EXERCISE slashes seizure risk

BREAST CANCER & bone health

★ Breast cancer treatments can weaken bones, but a new study shows that the recommended doses of calcium and vitamin D didn't help survivors maintain healthy bones.

Wake Forest Baptist Medical Center researchers analyzed 16 studies and concluded that the supplements don't prevent osteoporosis in women with breast cancer.

Says researcher Gary G. Schwartz: "Future trials are needed to evaluate the safety and (usefulness) of calcium and vitamin D supplementation in women undergoing breast cancer therapy."

Smart phone-based KIDNEY DEVICE

★ A new portable device that conducts a common urine test could reduce trips to the doctor's office for people with diabetes and kidney ailments.

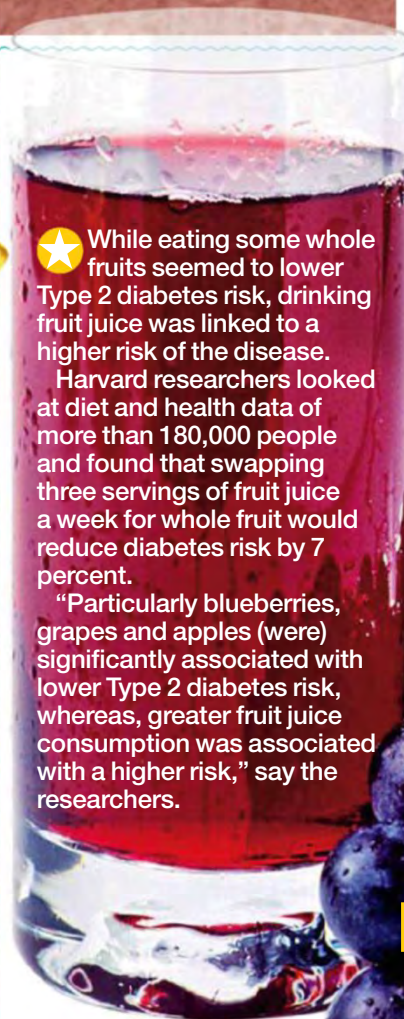

The lightweight gadget, invented by UCLA researchers, tests the urine for a protein called albumin and transmits data within seconds through a smart phone attachment.

"Albumin testing is frequently done to assess kidney damage, especially for diabetes patients," says UCLA professor Aydogan Ozcan. "This device provides an extremely convenient platform for chronic patients at home or in remote locations where cell phones work."

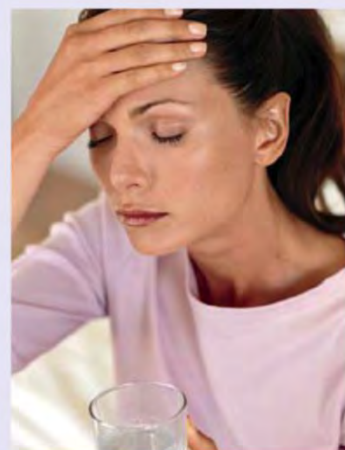

★ While eating some whole fruits seemed to lower Type 2 diabetes risk, drinking fruit juice was linked to a higher risk of the disease.

Harvard researchers looked at diet and health data of more than 180,000 people and found that swapping three servings of fruit juice a week for whole fruit would reduce diabetes risk by 7 percent.

"Particularly blueberries, grapes and apples (were) significantly associated with lower Type 2 diabetes risk, whereas, greater fruit juice consumption was associated with a higher risk," say the researchers.

MIGRAINES change brain structure

★ Migraine headaches might do more than cause pain – they can actually change brain structure.

Studies revealed that migraines increased risks of brain lesions, white matter abnormalities and more.

The association was even stronger for those who suffered migraines with aura.

"Traditionally, migraine has been considered a benign disorder without long-term consequences for the brain," notes Dr. Messoud Ashina of Denmark's University of Copenhagen. "Our review... suggests that the disorder may permanently alter brain structure in multiple ways."

Further studies are needed to see exactly how migraines damage the brain.

FAMOUS QUOTES FROM YOUR FAVORITE PEOPLE

Cryptograms are coded messages. To solve the Cryptogram, each coded letter must be replaced by the answer letter in the box overhead. When you solve the code for a letter, write the answer letter in the box everywhere the coded letter appears. Look for common words and letter patterns to break the code. Words like AND, I, THE and A are found frequently. Common word endings are ING, S and E.

LEN FELDMAN'S BEST BETS ON TV

What's hot
this week

Blair Underwood &
Kenneth Choi

Ironside (New Show!)

Wednesday, Oct. 2, 10 p.m. ET, NBC

This reboot of the classic cop TV series, about a crime-smashing police detective confined to his wheelchair, rolls right into action and never takes the brakes off.

Detective Robert Ironside (Blair Underwood) is hell on wheels when it comes to busting bad guys. Underwood is dynamically intense as the disabled cop whose unique perspective from his chair allows him to find clues other detectives would miss. With an excellent ensemble cast plus crime-fighting action and drama galore, "Ironside" is a great remake of a classic crime series. Kenneth Choi also stars.

Welcome to the Family (New Show!)

Thursday, Oct. 3, 8:30 p.m. ET, NBC

Life happens. And this new comedy series about unexpected pregnancy captures and embraces that notion with warmth, humor and highly enjoyable characters. When their underachieving daughter Molly (Ella Rae Peck) manages to graduate high school and get accepted to college, Dan Yoder (Mike O'Malley) and his wife Caroline (Mary McCormack) think they have it made with the house all to themselves. Surprise! Molly is pregnant. The baby daddy is honor student Junior Hernandez (Joey Haro). Now Junior's and Molly's parents must put their personal differences aside for the sake of their kids and grandchild and somehow come together as a family. Easier said than done. Ricardo Chavira and Justina Machado also star.

Sean Saves the World (New Show!)

Thursday, Oct. 3, 9 p.m. ET, NBC

Sean Hayes and veteran sitcom star Linda Lavin ("Alice") return to series television in this irresistible new comedy about Sean (Hayes), a single gay father who is trying way too hard to be a loving and attentive dad to his 14-year-old daughter Ellie (Sami Isler). At the same time, he's dealing with his oppressive new boss who would have him work late and miss time with Ellie. Lavin shines as Sean's sharp-witted, sarcastic and totally tactless mom. Absolutely adorable and loaded with love and laughter, this is the most delightful "feel-good" sitcom in years. It's like one big hug!

Vampire-werewolf
hybrid Joseph Morgan

The Originals (New Show!)

Thursday, Oct. 3, 9 p.m. ET, The CW

The Big Easy becomes a supernatural battleground as Klaus Mikaelson (Joseph Morgan), the original vampire-werewolf hybrid, returns to his New Orleans homeland. There he finds the city's humans, vampires, witches and werewolves controlled by his diabolical former protegee Marcel (Charles Michael Davis). Klaus also learns that the werewolf Hayley (Phoebe Tonkin) is carrying his unborn child and is in the witches' clutches. Seeing the baby as an heir to the kingdom they hope to regain, Klaus and his brother Elijah (Daniel Gillies) ally with the witches to save the child and destroy Marcel in this fast-paced, fiercely plotted and dramatically full-blooded "Vampire Diaries" spinoff. Claire Holt and Daniella Pineda also star.

PARKINSON's-plagued Michael J. Fox isn't the only star on his new sitcom battling chronic health woes.

A source says five-time Emmy winner Candice Bergen of "Murphy Brown" fame – who'll play the mother of Fox's character in a recurring role – still suffers from the effects of a devastating stroke in 2006.

"A one-off guest appearance wouldn't be bad," an insider close to the 67-year-old actress told The ENQUIRER.

"But if her recurring role becomes a regular thing, it could be very taxing for Candice, physically and mentally."

AS THE ENQUIRER HAS REPORTED, the beloved actress suffered a health crisis in September 2006 when she felt dizzy and weak, and was struck by an excruciating headache.

Candice underwent surgery at Cedars-Sinai Medical Center in Los Angeles, but later insisted that she didn't want to reveal details of her ordeal because she feared she'd lose work. However, she confessed her memory was "not quite the same."

To make matters worse, Candice broke her pelvis in 2011 when she fell during a bike ride.

But the gutsy Hollywood beauty battled back and tackled a stage role on Broadway in Gore Vidal's play "The Best Man."

"My concern with theater was no retakes," Candice told an interviewer. "I had no confidence in my memory."

Still, friends are concerned that she may be pressing her luck by signing on with NBC's "The Michael J. Fox Show."

Despite that, a rep for Bergen said: "Candice is fine. I think the fact that she appeared on Broadway for three months speaks for itself."

HOW TO PLAY

You must fill in every empty square in the Sudoku grid. There's no right way of going about this, but there is only ever one solution. The big grid is split into nine mini-grids. There are nine rows running left to right and nine columns running down. In every row, you must have each of the numbers 1, 2, 3, 4, 5, 6, 7, 8 and 9. These can be in any order. The same applies to columns and mini-grids: place every number 1 through 9 in each column and in each mini-grid.

MICHAEL'S DIARY IS LIFESAVER FOR PARIS

Troubled Jackson teen vows to DO HER DAD PROUD

A NEWLY discovered diary belonging to the late King of Pop is giving Michael Jackson's troubled daughter Paris a new lease on life!

Reports say Jackson spelled out his most cherished hopes and dreams in the secret journal shortly before he died of a drug overdose in June 2009.

Paris has read the diary, a source says, and the once-suicidal teen has decided to dedicate her life to making her father's dreams come true.

"After Michael died, Paris tried to get involved at school and meet new friends," a family source told The ENQUIRER.

"But nothing helped her get over her father's death completely. Now, after reading his diary, she feels close to Michael, and she's decided to fulfill the dreams that he wrote about in it.

"She's going to work with (her brothers) Prince and Blanket to accomplish what Michael couldn't."

IN THE DIARY, JACKSON WROTE that he wanted Broadway producers to develop a play about his life so he could become the "first multibillionaire entertainer-actor-director."

The eccentric superstar also wrote that he admired the song and dance stars of Hollywood's golden age, including Fred Astaire and Gene Kelly, and wanted to emulate their success.

"Michael also wrote about launching a line of merchandise, including cookies and sodas," added the source. "Paris says she's going to start listing her father's favorite foods, and then decide what to pursue first."

Focusing on her father's dreams should be a welcome project for 15-year-old Paris. As The ENQUIRER has reported, sources said "satanic" voices pushed her to slash her wrists and overdose on 20 Motrin painkiller pills on June 5 in a misguided bid to reunite with her beloved father.

Paris was rushed to West Hills Hospital and then moved to UCLA Medical Center and eventually spent more than a month in treatment there. In July, she was moved to a therapeutic boarding school in Utah, where she goes by the pseudonym "Frankie."

Meanwhile, Jackson's mother Katherine hopes to get the journal's contents admitted into evidence in the clan's ongoing $40 billion wrongful death lawsuit against concert promoter AEG Live, a source says.

The diary may help Jackson's heirs win the suit because Michael wrote about wanting his personal physician, Dr. Conrad Murray, to administer the anesthetic propofol to help him sleep. The family accuses AEG Live of "negligence and breach of contract" in hiring and supervising Murray, who has been convicted of involuntary manslaughter in Jackson's death.

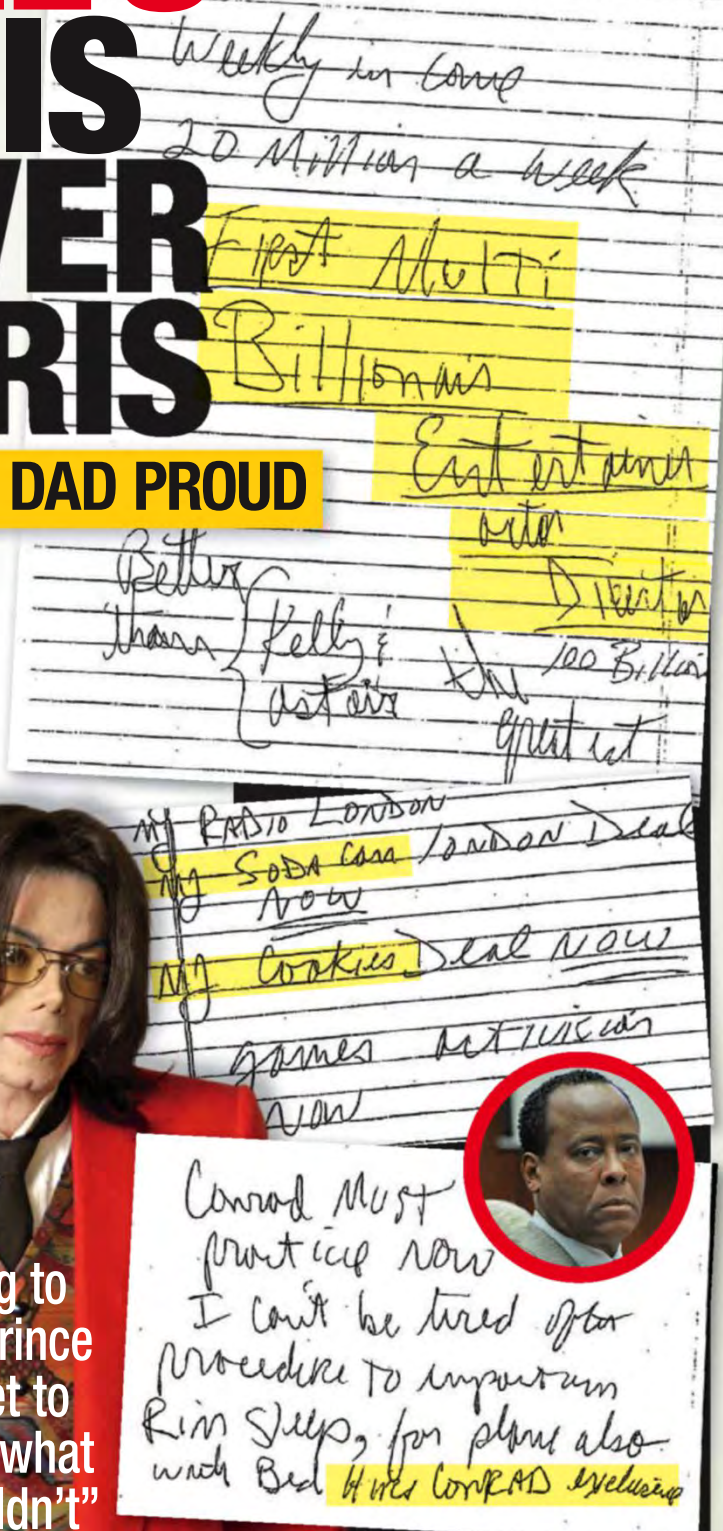

The source said: "Michael's diary is not only giving Paris a new lease on life, but if it's introduced as evidence in court, she and her brothers may end up richer than God."

MICHAEL DETTLAFF found a true diamond in the rough – a gem-dandy stone worth a whopping $15,000!

The eagle-eyed 12-year-old made the discovery when his family took a 100-mile detour on a trip to visit relatives and stopped at the Crater of Diamonds State Park in Murfreesboro, Ark., on July 31.

The park is the world's only diamond-producing site that's open to the public and allows visitors who find diamonds to keep them.

"WE THOUGHT IT WOULD be fun to go, but I never dreamed we'd find anything of real value," said Michael, who lives in Apex, N.C.

"They tell you that if you're lucky you might find a diamond, but it'd be so small that it wouldn't be worth anything."

While his father was busy renting mining equipment, Michael wandered off and, within just 10 minutes, spotted an odd-looking stone.

"It was very smooth and glassy, and it was just lying there on the ground," he said.

"I wasn't sure if it was a diamond, but it didn't look like anything else around it."

Michael's dad Chris didn't know what to make of it either.

"We kind of dismissed it," said Chris.

But they didn't find anything else of interest, and as they were getting ready to leave, Michael showed his stone to a park official.

"The guy took one look at it and went bug-eyed," Michael recalled.

"He said, 'Wait a minute. I need to take this to the back room and show it to someone who'll know more about it.'"

The 5.16-carat rarity from Crater of Diamonds State Park is the largest stone found since 1972

"The next thing I knew, people started coming from everywhere and told me I'd found a really big diamond. I was stunned."

Michael's gem of a find turned out to be a 5.16-carat diamond, one of the largest to be found at Crater since it became a state park in 1972.

More than 75,000 diamonds have been unearthed at the site since the first was found there in 1906 by farmer John Huddleston, who owned the land at the time. The biggest was a 40-carat behemoth found in 1924.

Appraisers say that if Michael's diamond can be cleaned and cut, it could be worth $15,000.

"Michael was excited to have found his own diamond, but he was absolutely awestruck when he realized the significance," said Park interpreter Waymon Cox.

Michael considered the diamond such a blessing that he gave it a name – God's Glory.

"If I can get it cut, and it really is valuable, I think I'll sell it. If not, it's a great souvenir," he said.

His dad Chris added: "Michael is certainly going to remember that day for the rest of his life. He was absolutely thrilled."
